Development Watch (08/28/09)

At Christmas, don't say I never gave you anything...my friends; I deliver you the following gifts in the form of 'City Tidbits'.

Tap's Fish House and Brewery: Almost worst than the salvation of food itself, Corona residents are eagerly salivating for 'quality' restaurants within its borders; Tap's Fish House and Brewery is one of those restaurants. Upscale, pricey and worth a couple visits! We have a sneak-peek at what the restaurant will look like when it is completed, enjoy! Image # 1, Image # 2

Mammoth Building Project: All right, so you are commuting back to Corona from some forsaken place in Orange County and you notice new construction on the left side of the freeway (adjacent to Coco's and the Green River Golf Course). You glance over while trying to balance a phone call, a Latte and oh yes, that Semi in front of you! My friends, why didn't you ask...I am here for YOU! It just so happens that Mammoth Equities is building a 3-story 54,000 sq. foot office building! Take a peek at the final product, enjoy! Image # 1, Image # 2

Trader Joe's at The Promenade Shops at Dos Lagos: The Message Boards have been a-blaze with Trader Joe's talk...is it coming, is it not coming (rumors, innuendos...the usual). While I have confirmed it will be opening in Mid-October and will be 'larger than originally planned' there is still questions. Why has www.Traderjoes.com not updated their 'Coming Soon' stores with the Corona, California site (they have this past week with Rancho Cucamonga)? On a slightly different but related topic, Whole Foods is divesting all 34 Henry's Stores to the Smart & Final Corporation which could pave the way for an interesting rivalry!
